TBMB CONFERENCE CENTERS PLAN "SOFT REOPENING"

As COVID-19 began to spread in March, the Tennessee Baptist Mission Board officially closed its two conference centers — Carson Springs in Newport and Linden Valley in Linden — on March 18.

Mark Proctor, associate administrator of the Tennessee Baptist Mission Board, called the action a "hard close" because "everything was taken off the books at that point."

Beginning June 23, the hard close ends and a "soft reopening" begins as the conference center reopens "to host select smaller groups, individuals and events that can be managed while meeting state and federal gathering guidelines," Proctor said.

The TBMB Conference Centers are greatly anticipating welcoming guests back to the centers beginning on June 24, Proctor said. "Gatherings will generally be limited to one group at a time but all guests can come expecting the same impeccable service to which they've become accustomed from their Conference Centers staffs."
